

Are you sure these games are safe?

It has come to light, that there are several games currently that your children can access online or by downloading through an app, that are inappropriate for them to be playing. Many of these games have 'child friendly' names and are actually very frightening or involve adult and/or extreme content.

Here are a list of a few that have recently been brought to my attention and some of the related images and/or logos that have been used to advertise these games.

Poppy Playtime

Five nights at Freddy's (FNAF)

Bendy and the ink machine

Andy's apple farm

Rabbit Knight

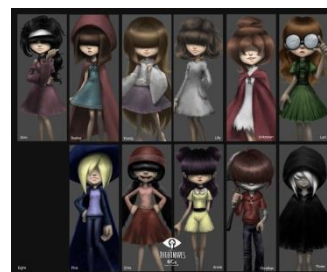

Doki Doki Literature Club

Little Nightmares

What remains of

Edith Finch

Huggy Wuggy - Often showing his teeth

Steam- this is an app that can be used to download a range of different games. Some of these are child friendly and age appropriate but we advise to check the content before allowing your children to play on these.
